Strategy

September 22, 2009

Atlanta, GA – CRB Realty Associates, Inc. announces the launch of the CRB Realty website (www.crbrealty.com). The new website design serves as the primary platform for CRB's comprehensive Internet marketing initiatives and demonstrates the company's commitment to providing the best quality support and collaboration to its customers and business partners, respectively.

"Our new website is the best I've ever seen for a company such as ours," said Charles R. Brown, Chairman and CEO of CRB Realty Associates, Inc., "It's easy to navigate, the text is concise and informative, and the selection of the illustrations and composition of the pages is excellent as well as directive to the user. CRB Realty's website is comprehensive and portrays the image we would hope to be. I believe people come away with not only knowledge of who we are and what we do, but with a favorable and comfortable impression of CRB."

An interactive, highly functional and performance-driven web presence is critical to any commercial real estate company that's serious about succeeding in today's volatile industry, said Thomas Harpointner, CEO of AIS Media, Inc. "In developing CRB Realty's new web site, our team focused on creating a look and feel that instantly conveys the quality of CRB's brand reputation, industry strength, and thought leadership. In addition, the web strategy delivers tangible and measurable results through routine performance analysis and reporting.
